This project consists in the complete refurbishment of a rambling and dilapidated four storey Edwardian family house with wonderful views of the Thames, including the construction of a new basement and ground floor extension. A modern bay window in the Dining Room of the new rear extension provides a unique and wide view of the river.

For this house BWA designed a large number of joinery items including the kitchen and desks and bookcases, to accommodate both parents professional requirements - writers working from home and owning many books - as well as children's toy storage.

The plan of the house was greatly rationalized, with the main stairs re-configured.
